HOW A REBEL SECURED A UNION WIFE—A Indianapolis letter dated July 7th gives the following bit of real romance

At the battle of Champion Hills in which [illegible] division bore so prominent a part [illegible] 3 000 Johnnies were gobbled [illegible] They were sent to Camp Morton [illegible] safe keeping, and I well remember standing on a pile of boards at the entrance of Pennsylvania street [illegible] watching the dirty gray [illegible] as they [illegible] through the dust en route for camp. It happened, although I did not know it at the time, that among the prisoners was a young man by name [illegible] will call him Roberts, a private in an Alabama regiment. He was of good family residing at Huntsville, and at the breaking out of the war, in company with many other students of the college he was attending, his Southern heart was inspired to think and do chivalrous deeds, so he took his gun, went out and was conquered at Champion Hills. Safely lodged in Camp Morton he naturally looked [illegible] something to read, something to charm away the dull hours [illegible] He had managed to smuggle into camp a suit of citizens clothes, and neat and clean always he presented quite a contrast to his fellow captives in dirty gray. One day a young lady visited the camp, in company with some friends, out of curiosity. She saw him, was struck with his gentlemanly appearance, and inquired about him. Learning from the officers that he wanted the companionship of books, she sent him some on her return home. Her kindness was acknowledged by a brief note.

In the course of time an occasion suggested another note; it was answered, and a correspondence was thus begun which lasted through twenty-two months of weary prison life. Finally in March last young Roberts was paroled, and sent under guard to City Point, Va. His lady friend saw him and he her as he passed through the streets of our city, but they were unable to speak to each other. He reached home about the time of Lee's surrender, and tired of the contest and glad of release, he took the oath of allegiance and became once more a citizen of the United States. But he could not rest contented. He thought of her whose kindness had lightened his prison doors, and sped by the wings of love he came Northward to find her, and yesterday morning he reached the city, sought and found her, and for their first time in their lives the free privilege of speech with each other was accorded them. How they improved the occasion is not mine to say. Were I a prophet, knowing the parties as I do, I would not be afraid to predict a fair and happy future for the youthful lovers. A conversation with the young man reveals the fact that though somewhat chagrined by defeat, he is yet content, and goes for the Union as it is. He regards slavery as dead and buried, and in all respects gives promise that our bitter war has not been without good fruits. He is now in a fair way of being reconstructed.

MELANCHOLY DEATH.—About four o'clock yesterday afternoon the citizens of Albany were shocked by the sad intelligence that Lewis B. Cleaver, a citizen of this place had been killed by being struck by lightning, about three miles from town on the road leading to Brownsville. In a short time the mournful intelligence was confirmed by the body being brought into town in a wagon by Mr. Wm. Hale, who happened to be coming into town, and was about half a mile from where Mr. Cleaver was when struck down by the electric bolt. The particulars, as near as we have been able to learn, are as follows: Mr. Lewis B. Cleaver and his brother, Monroe, went into the country yesterday morning to drive in some beef cattle. They were driving the cattle and had come to the place indicated, just in time to receive the death dealing fluid. Monroe was knocked from his horse, and when he recovered consciousness, he remembers seeing his brother lying on the ground near him, and thinks he heard him breathe two or three times afterward. When Mr. Hale came to the place, he found Monroe seated on the ground with his dead brother's head on his lap. The lightning seems to have taken effect at the crown of his head and passed out of his body in front near the waist. His hat was torn in pieces and his hair and clothes considerably burned. No bones were broken, nor was the skin of the body fractured. The horse he was riding fell dead and never moved. One of the cattle they were driving had its under jaw broken. Monroe Cleaver was suffering considerably this morning from the effects of the shock he received.

Lewis B. Cleaver, was 26 years, 2 months and 10 days old. He was a man of exemplary habits and had won the esteem and confidence of a large circle of friends, who mourn his untimely loss.—Albany Journal, Sept 8th.

THE MRS. SURRATT CONTROVERSY.—It has been stated by some of the friends of Father Walter, the spiritual adviser of Mrs. Surratt, that he has prepared for publication a document designed to refute the statements contained in Gen. Hardie's communication of the 20th of July. Washington correspondence says that Father Walter was known throughout the war as one of the most uncompromising, malicious rebels in the community and, from what his acquaintances say of him, his animosity toward the Government has increased, rather than diminished in virulence. The Archbishop of Baltimore has requested Father Walter to desist further discussion upon the subject of Mrs. Surratt's guilt or innocence. The refutation paper may, therefore, never appear in print.

Mississippi

The ratification of the Constitutional Amendment by the Mississippi Convention is undoubtedly looked upon by the people of that State as final. The members of the Convention were chosen by the whole people of Mississippi at an election held on the 10th of August, and of which due notice had been given. The [illegible] the Convention may be presumed to have been fully known by the people at the time when the call was made. From the fact that the Convention acted upon the Amendment it may be presumed further that it was the express intent of its members and of the people to settle the matter at once in a decisive manner. Therefore Mississippi may now be enumerated among the States which have pronounced for the abolition of slavery. The Convention assumed to speak authoritatively for the people of the State. The Amendment was passed upon by the rectors of the following declaration:

"The institution of slavery having been destroyed in the State of Mississippi, neither slavery or involuntary servitude, otherwise than for punishment of crime, shall hereafter exist in the State. The Legislature shall provide by law at the next session for the security and protection of the persons and property of the freedmen of the State, and guard them and the State against any evil that may arise from their sudden emancipation."

From the manner in which this act is worded there is no room for doubt that the work of the Convention is intended to be decisive and final. Thus the former slave States are signifying their acceptance of the new order of things which has arisen out of the war. Three of the Northern States have not yet voted on the Amendment, but all of these, Iowa, California and Oregon, will ratify it. Though we may not need New Jersey we shall soon have her with us too.

It is very gratifying to notice the change which is taking place in Mississippi. If it were possible for any of the rebellious States to have been more virulent in their treason or more uncompromising in their hostility to the national Government than the rest, Mississippi may be said to have stood in the former class. She was under the control of such men as Jeff. Davis and C. C. Clay, and these leaders, seconded by a host of subordinates, whose hatred of the Government was in most cases, in inverse ratio to their real abilities, exercised an influence over the minds of the people as vicious as it was complete. Their hold was none the less despotic because the people willingly and even enthusiastically submitted to their supreme dictation. To show that their evil influence is now broken down, it is only necessary to point to the present action of the people whereby they repudiate the teachings of their old political masters.

It may be said that Mississippi in abolishing slavery succumbs to the force of inevitable necessity, and does under compulsion what she would never have done through choice. All this, doubtless, is true; but in matters of great political moment, men are never able to do what they would or to be complete masters of the situation in which they find themselves. Men and parties are continually under the pressure of unavoidable necessity. This they may modify in some degree, but they can never entirely avert it or escape wholly from its control. The efforts of men but rarely result in the complete fulfillment of their wishes and aims. Wisdom does not consist in keeping up an obstinate warfare directly against the inexorable march of events, but in accepting the situation as it is and in trying to make the most of it. The Southern people therefore do wisely to acquiesce in the change that has taken place in what they were wont to call their social and industrial system. And in adapting themselves to new circumstances they are only doing what men have done before and will often do again.

The Contagiousness of Crime.—Of the epidemic nature of crime there is a modern theory which now and then seems strongly supported by the frequency and quick succession with which criminal acts of certain kinds follow each other. During the past two or three months, the Eastern papers have teemed with accounts of the most shocking outrages on female chastity, perpetrated by lewd villains in almost every part of the country. We never remember to have heard before of so many revolting instances of this basest of crimes as the papers of the East have published during the last few weeks. The epidemic theory of crime of which we just spoke, appears to be sustained not only by the statistics of other countries, but also by occurrences which are often witnessed in our own. Some of the sophists among the ancients taught that suicide was a praiseworthy act, and that he who died by his own hand gave the world a most distinguished proof of self abnegation—that highest attainment of virtue. Others spread before their idealistic readers and listeners such beautiful depictions of the glories of the unseen world as induced many to destroy themselves in order to enjoy this wonderful degree of bliss. The captivating story of Plato's Elysium so wrought upon the mind of Cleombrotus that in the delirium of his ecstacy he leaped into the sea to begin, as he supposed, a life of rapture by putting an end to his career on earth. It is no great wonder that others should imitate conduct of this kind. The frequency of these acts of self destruction can be accounted for only on the supposition that enthusiasts were led by example to take their own lives. The contagious quality of suicide has been manifested even more conspicuously in recent times. In Paris, at several periods there has prevailed an actual mania for self destruction. At one time drowning was common; at another the almost universal method adopted by suicides was that of inhaling the fumes of charcoal. Thousands ended their existence in these ways, and it was noticed that while one of these methods was prevailing few who sought to destroy themselves thought of any other—thus showing that those who died by their own hands were effected by the contagion of example. This epidemic of crime has also been noticed at various times, in the unusual, and on any other hypothesis than the one just mentioned the quite unaccountable prevalence of thefts and murders. It seems strange that one act of villainy or atrocity should be followed by others of a like kind, but observation as well as the incontestable evidence of statistics shows that such is the case. It is not unlikely that the publication of the details of a crime induces other moral wretches to perpetrate deeds similar in enormity to the one which is thus exposed. For example all the minute particulars relative to the [illegible] outrage and murder near Roxbury, Mass., early last summer, were published in the newspapers, and whether other like crimes were thus incited or not, they followed in rapid succession. It cannot be but that the manner in which the sensation papers describe those hideous enormities, does stimulate the vicious and depraved to commit other like acts. [illegible] story of this sort there is always something to excite the worst passions of men of the baser kind. The narrator too often throws an air of romance about the tale he relates, and frequently makes the perpetrator of a most dreadful crime a sort of hero in the sight of a person who is altogether vicious and corrupt. It is an old adage that by familiarizing people with crime they are made to look upon it with a less reprobation than they felt before.

Mississippi Affairs.

New York, Sept. 7.—The Cincinnati Commercial has a dispatch dated Jackson, Miss., Sept 4th, which says Gen. Slocum has issued an order by direction of President, enjoining on his officers not to interfere with the organization of the State militia ordered by Gov. Sharkey. This is directly the reverse of the determination of the Government on this subject [illegible] a few days since, and is accounted for by the fact that the Government is looking to the gradual suppression of the Federal troops by State militia in order to diminish National expense.

Mexican News—The Liberals Losing Ground.

New York, Sept. 7.—The Commercial's special says: Intelligence from Mexico confirms the reports of disasters to the Liberals. The strategic combinations of the Imperialists seem to preclude the hope of a prolonged resistance by Juarez. The retreat of the Mexicans from Chihuahua is confirmed. It is not probable that the Liberals can sustain their position or persist in resistance without aid which is not to be looked for. The French are receiving reinforcements and are now in a better position than ever.

The President will not interfere with the action of the Southern Bishops. They may unite with the Northern Church or not, as they please. In reply to a remonstrance of the radicals he stated that the Constitution was silent on the subject.

A U. S. Gunboat Sent Up the St. Lawrence to the Lakes.

The Navy Department dispatched from the Washington Navy Yard to-day, a gunboat to proceed via St. Lawrence to Detroit. This action of the Government is deemed important, as relating to the long existing treaty stipulations restricting naval operations on frontier waters.

Trade in New York.

New York, Sept. 8.—General trade continues moderately active, with many prices for most commodities. The [illegible] broke down under a sudden decline [illegible] on wheat. Reports from Europe however give very unfavorable accounts of the crops there. [illegible] sales [illegible] market active. [illegible] Pork lower and without [illegible].

The Pirate Shenandoah.

A letter addressed by J. M. Mason, rebel agent in England, to the London Times, dated August 29th, says he sent [illegible] to the pirate Shenandoah to cease hostilities, go into port [illegible] and discharge her crew. The orders were sent through channels which would insure prompt delivery. By this time he presumes her cruise had ended.

The New Constitution of Georgia.

New York, Sept. 6.—The Savannah Herald of September 2d says: New Constitution meetings continue to be held in various counties. One held in Effingham county adopted resolutions declaring that they would faithfully support and defend the Union, Constitution and the laws; that the result of the late unhappy civil war should be made the means of consolidating our Government, strengthen the bonds of Union and render any future attempt on the part of unprincipled partisans at revolution and blood shed utterly impossible.

From Mexico.

New York, Sept. [illegible]—The capture of Fort St. Michael by the rebels has already been announced. The [illegible] has a long account of the event by which it appears that Ar[illegible], who commanded the rebels, did not seek to enter the postern gate, but led his force through [illegible] up to the very walls of the fort, but his band experienced great difficulties in making their way through the net work under wood and other obstacles. On reaching the walls Ar[illegible] ordered a halt, and mounting an oak tree he reconnoitered the position and waited for the dawn. About [illegible], he descended from the tree and rushed into the fort at the head of his men. The garrison being thus unexpectedly attacked with [illegible] went into indiscriminate confusion and fled, leaving the fort to the victors.

New York, Sept. [illegible]—The [illegible] correspondent at Matamoras on the 14th ult. had a long conversation with General Delon of the Liberal army. The latter says that he wants assistance so urgently that unless it is given in some way the cause will be lost. They have no money, arms, clothing and [illegible] provisions. The last want is so much felt that large bodies of men cannot keep the field. It is only by entreaty that the chiefs can hold them together for short periods. Delon told the writer that he and others had to beg them by all they held dear to keep together. [illegible] has seen men lying on the ground moved to tears by the words of their leaders. The [illegible] of men [illegible] Negrete, 5,000 men; [illegible] Gen. Delon 2,500 [illegible] Porfirio Diaz, 1,800; Gen. Hinojosa, 800, and President Juarez [illegible]; total 16,200. This is the [illegible] to be acting under orders of the government. The first of these corps [illegible] of Gen. Negrete, which holds the state of Chihuahua; next is that of [illegible], which operates on the line of the Sola from Vera Cruz to Tabasco. There are [illegible] men who make war in the name of the general government, but will not obey orders from any one. The chiefs of these bodies ought Delon says to be [illegible] so that their men might be brought under regular commands. The Administration is now formed of the Executive and three Ministers only. The seat of the government is Chihuahua. [illegible] was sometime ago sent [illegible] as Envoy to the United States [illegible] Mexico [illegible] signed by the President [illegible] A. M. The merchants of this city have for some time past been discussing the project of having an Exchange Building of their own. They intend forming a stock company purchasing property suitable for their purposes and arranging matters so to have better accommodations and [illegible]. Twenty-eight thousand dollars have already been subscribed to the new project.

The first regiment of Infantry militia will leave on Monday morning for a field day at San Leandro. The regimental prize is a beautiful painting of President Lincoln, valued at $250, and is to be contested for by a detail of three men from each company, each man having three shots, the best average man shots for the detail winning the prize. This will be the first target shooting on a grand scale.

Markets

The California Mining Share Market was very active, and prices generally were higher. Last stock quotations of to-day are as follows: Savage $1,240; Belcher $300; Gould & Curry $1,100; Yellow Jacket $[illegible]; Potosi $442; Ophir $[illegible]; Chollar $460; Ossaman $18[illegible]; Hale & Norcross $540; Crown Point $1,120; Uncle Sam $184; Alpha $1,018 50; Minerva no quotation; Bullion $[illegible]; Baltimore American $[illegible]; Burning Moscow [illegible]; Imperial [illegible]; Sierra Nevada $76 [illegible].

This week has shown a decided improvement in volume and the tendency of prices of many of the leading Eastern commodities has been to a higher range. Coal oil, coffee, preserved fruit, candles, distilled spirits, butter, sugar and soap are among articles which have advanced.

Telegraphic accounts from New York report improving prices for most commodities, which taken in connection with the reduced supplies in our own warehouses and comparatively light shipments on the way, impart a tone and strength to the general merchandise markets. Leading feature in produce market is advance in wheat consequent upon the withholding of supplies from the interior and the continued disposition to store which the abundance and comparatively low rates of capital favor. Flour is also a shade firmer. The dry goods trade is steadily improving. The volume of transactions during the week being larger than from any corresponding period in many months.

The market in staple domestic cotton fabrics continues to harden in response to the upward tendency of price in the East, and the result is that British goods are entering into successful competition, notwithstanding the high tariff rates. A private telegram dated New York, Sept. 20, quotes the market for cotton goods very firm and many kinds advancing. 10-4 White Rock bleached sheetings were quoted at 50c and other bleached sheetings in proportion. Brown sheetings [illegible] the same date quoted at [illegible] and Merrimac prints at [illegible].

Butter—[illegible] firkins [illegible] for western, and 27½ for choice western, [illegible] lots at [illegible]. Coffee—[illegible] bags Central American at 24c. Hams—[illegible] bags [illegible]. Lard—[illegible]. Oil—Sales of 100 cases Devoe's at $1 00, on time. Sugar—Public sale of [illegible],000 hhds Hawaiian low grade to medium No. 1 at $1 50@[illegible] 65 per 100 lbs. SAFES!

TILTON & M'FARLAND'S

CELEBRATED

SAFES!

THE ONLY RELIABLE SAFE

on this Coast.

THE FOLLOWING IS TAKEN FROM THE Detroit Tribune of June 25th, 1865

Daring Robbery.—On the night of the 10th inst., the Treasurer's office of Macomb county, Michigan, was entered, the safe broken open, and robbed of $7,000. The safe was laid upon its back and the door entirely demolished with a sledge-hammer. We learn from highly authentic sources that the robbers could not have worked over ten minutes before entering the safe.

Persons now using the chilled iron safes should be very careful of depositing large sums of money in them, unless some one is sleeping nigh. The safe above alluded to was purchased only a few months ago of Lillie's agent, and warranted both fire and burglar-proof. As soon as "Lillie's agent" heard of the robbery, he at once went to Mount Clemens, and (as we are told) tried to reconcile the matter, by offering the county a new safe, and taking at once to remove the old one. However, in this he has been foiled. The [illegible] now arises, the County Commissioners are not Lillie & Son responsible for the stolen property, after warranting their safe both fire and burglar proof? The people of Macomb county are anxious that this thing should be looked to.

A petition is in circulation in this city signed, when seen by us, by over three hundred persons of the most responsible and influential character [illegible] that owing to the disasters and loss of life during the last few years on this coast petitioners ask that a bill may be passed compelling all inspectors under heavy and certain penalties, at every port throughout the United States, to see that the act to provide for the better security of the lives of passengers on board of vessels propelled wholly or in part by steam [illegible] 1852, be carried [illegible] officers be compelled [illegible] part at Washington City each inspector [illegible], whenever they fail [illegible] this petition that prompt and early action be taken by Congress in the matter as steamers [illegible], not at all seaworthy, are going [illegible] in defiance of law [illegible] loss of lives. It is also asked that ships going [illegible] be made to provide better [illegible] by having [illegible] perfect life [illegible]. At least one surf boat, with perfect air chambers [illegible] every twenty-five souls carried [illegible] and that they be kept in perfect running order at all times [illegible] equipped [illegible] United States Port [illegible] light houses [illegible] a dangerous part of the coast [illegible] to keep on hand at least [illegible] air chambers [illegible] that all other modern improvements [illegible] are now [illegible] in Europe for the saving of lives [illegible]. That good first class light house [illegible] erected on the reef at Crescent City and buoys placed there to indicate the hidden rocks [illegible] Calif., and Southern Oregon [illegible] repetition of shipwreck [illegible] Forts and Light-houses be supplied [illegible] quarterly return to the proper department [illegible] Washington of all violations [illegible] recommend [illegible] patent boat [illegible] to be used on all sea going vessels. This [illegible] sensible, and highly essential. That the [illegible] culpable and utter disregard for the well [illegible] life exists on the line of ocean travel to Victoria and San Francisco [illegible]. Vessels are in use on which the oakum [illegible] from the seams above water [illegible] yet these same crafts are running regularly even though they keep their pumps working at the wharf when [illegible] passengers under certificates from Calif [illegible]. Soon we are to be sent [illegible] the Lord knows how many years [illegible] of Congress is earnestly directed to this [illegible] will be forwarded to Senator Williams [illegible] through Wells Fargo & Co's Express, there being now no mail for us in Oregon. Heaven help us a people struggling against fate.

Mysterious Circumstances. [illegible] persons from [illegible] we learn that a passenger in the coach [illegible] while a week ago this morning [illegible] himself in the head, killing himself almost in[illegible] within a few yards [illegible] Station, about nine miles [illegible] river. The shot was given [illegible] the other passengers to the [illegible] the movements of the unfortunate man, and were [illegible] to notice his singular action, by his saying his name is Frank Martin, which was repeated at [illegible]. He fired the pistol, which he held by [illegible] his coat, closely buttoned up in [illegible] the shot entered beneath the lower jaw and [illegible] vital parts, presenting a horrible sight. [illegible] the pistol started the team and the driver [illegible] the horses, when he was told to stop—but [illegible] of the passengers had been shouting at a [illegible] until informed that a man [illegible], when the team was stopped, and the [illegible] the case was understood. Being but a few [illegible] the station, and the position of the dead man [illegible] that no blood was seen running from his [illegible] he passed on carefully to the station, when [illegible] the suicide fell over to the outside and blood [illegible]. He was left there with a companion, [illegible] the real name of the unfortunate person [illegible] that he was a Portuguese. The affair [illegible] mysterious circumstances connected with [illegible] state of the case may never be known. [illegible] a short distance back of where the man [illegible] six men applied for passage, one of whom [illegible] chief spokesman. The six took passage, [illegible] to the end of the route in gold. The [illegible] one of them. The names of the men as given were C Smith, F Smith, Williams, Silver [illegible] which our informant does not remember [illegible] "Frank Martin," or "Mateo," was given as [illegible] After a space of a few minutes two of the [illegible] to be sick [illegible] they could not ride in the [illegible] their passage money again—but it was [illegible] them. However, they left the coach. The supposition of the passengers is [illegible] either meant to do some bad act, or had [illegible] had, before entering the coach.

Letter from Canyon City

Canyon City September 4th 186[illegible]

Editor Oregonian: [illegible] of the happiest couplets ever written by Pope is [illegible]

The truth of this has lately been made manifest to the citizens of Canyon City in consequence of the weekly appearance in the Dalles Mountaineer [illegible] letters signed "Pickles" [illegible] purporting to be written by one [illegible] gentleman [illegible] affixed to John Smith at an [illegible] the matter contained in his letters, is as mendacious as the epistles themselves. Possessing not even the negative virtue [illegible] serve but to excite indignation and contempt and we should be unwilling to give them even this passing notice did not a desire to prevent printed obscenity from being introduced into the family circle call upon us to stamp with our disapprobation the attempt to make that which ought to be a medium of intelligence a vehicle for dragging the disgusting offspring of a diseased and corrupt mind before the gaze of an insulted public.

We do not propose to pollute your pages by making quotations from that which we now condemn, feeling that the attempt would neither meet your approval nor our own. We would simply remark that these letters are as secure from criticism as the skunk is secure from the hunter. They are too noisome to approach or handle. But whilst speaking thus allow us on behalf of the good people of this place to express the wish that the obscene ideas and puns contained in the letters to which we allude may no longer be permitted an insertion in any paper professing to disseminate views which shall meet the approval of the home circle. We would at the same time gently hint that the principle which induces us to exclude from the society of our families the utterers of falsehood, blasphemy and obscenity extends to the exclusion of the newspaper that gives unnecessary publicity to such utterances.

Respectfully yours, PATER FAMILIAS

WISTAR'S BALSAM
—OF—
WILD CHERRY!
HAS BEEN USED FOR NEARLY HALF A CENTURY,
WITH THE MOST ASTONISHING SUCCESS IN CURING
Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Croup, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Difficulty of Breathing, Asthma, and every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS, AND CHEST, INCLUDING EVEN CONSUMPTION.

There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes, during a season, from some one however slightly developed, of the above symptoms—a neglect of which might lead to the last named, and most to be dreaded disease in the whole catalogue. The power of "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known, so great is the good it has performed, and so great the popularity it has acquired.

In this preparation, besides the virtues of the Cherry there are commingled with it other ingredients of like value, thus increasing its value ten fold and forming a Remedy whose power to soothe, to heal to relieve and to cure disease, exists in no other medicine yet discovered.

The unequalled succ[illegible] that has attended the application of this medicine in all cases of has induced many physicians of high standing to employ it in their practice, some of whom advise us of the fact under their own signatures. We have space only for the names of a few of these:—

The proprietors have letters from all classes of our fellow citizens, from the halls of Congress to the humblest cottage and even from beyond the seas; for the fame and virtue of WISTAR'S BALSAM have extended to the uttermost bounds of the earth, without any attempt on our part to introduce it beyond the limits of our own country.

An Editorial Ex President

One of the busiest of the aged [illegible] ex President [illegible] He [illegible] from many [illegible] and as full of [illegible] any old lady who [illegible] drinks [illegible] through with [illegible] from the Appleton press and while waiting [illegible] criticism it is sure to evoke, the venerable [illegible] devotes his leisure hours to newspaper writing. He is fond of the excessive editorial and [illegible] hand at the business [illegible] he cannot hide his style. It breaks out in spite of his efforts. We think we do not err therefore in attributing to him the article in a late number of the [illegible] Intelligencer, prominently [illegible] in Thursday's New York [illegible] It was [illegible] has forwarded in proof sheets [illegible] J. B. himself. The object [illegible] the Democratic party to support Andrew Johnson [illegible] administration of the General Government [illegible] following is an extract

Since Andrew Johnson has been called upon to preside over the destiny of this nation, the Democratic press of the country has watched [illegible] with eager and anxious solicitude. It [illegible] to approve or censure [illegible] ed to be wise and judicious [illegible]. Finding him willing to enter upon the great work of reconstruction with prudent foresight and statesmanlike sagacity, it gave him every assurance of sympathy and support in such a course. When it saw him boldly renounce the fatal doctrine of "State Suicide," upon which the radical Abolitionists had so strongly insisted, it praised him not from any sycophantic impulse, but because what he thus did was in accordance with correct political principles. When, in issuing his proclamation for the reconstruction of State governments in the revolted States, he refused to use powers not granted to him by the Constitution of the United States, and left each State free to control its own local affairs, he then took his stand square upon Democratic ground. It would seem strange indeed if in this the Democratic press of the country had not stood by President Johnson. When in spite of all the pressure which the radical Abolitionists could bring to bear upon him, he steadfastly refused to interfere for the purpose of helping them to carry out their favorite design of conferring the right of suffrage upon the negroes of the Southern States, he again showed himself entitled to, and he again received, universal commendation from the Democratic press.

Shrewdly and keenly stated. It is eminently like J. B. and is echoed by most of his friends throughout the State, such, for instance, as [illegible] Jones, of Reading and the Pittsburg [illegible] The members of the Union party will see how eagerly the opportunity is seized by the most reckless leader of the Copperheads—the chief who helped treason by refusing to brain it when it began to plot, even in the very chambers of the Cabinet—to make a show of favor for President Johnson. The spectacle should not be lost upon them. The experiment is prompted alone by the hope of dividing the citizens who are the natural friends and defenders of the President's policy. If J. B. did not believe that there were some Republicans ready to take issue with the President on "reconstruction"—if he did not hope that they would even attack the President should he refuse to abandon his plan—he would never have ventured to write what is above copied. He would feel toward the President as he felt toward the latter, as Governor of Tennessee, was denouncing the traitors, and calling on God to punish their crimes, and as he felt, when, as Senator in Congress, he hurled his terrific anathemas upon J. B.'s loving friends Slidell, Davis, Wigfall, Hunter and Benjamin. The game is not a new one. It was tried on Lincoln with indifferent success. The same process of selecting a part of the Administration policy for praise, and calling it the President's, and of selecting another part of the Administration policy for dispraise, and calling it Stanton's, was applied to both. J. B., for instance, sanctions what he enumerates in the above paragraph, but he is doubtless bitterly severe upon the trial and execution of the conspirators, upon the confiscation of the property of the traitors, and upon the idea of "hanging Jeff Davis on a sour apple tree." On the whole, we are not sorry to see J. B. "prospecting" in such a fashion. It is a sample of fate and somewhat suggestive of penitence. But whether it is mere advertisement for spoils, or an honest showing of remorse for past infamies time alone can prove.—Forney's Press

The Currency

The New York Evening Post favors the National Banks, but, drawing a sensible distinction between the abundance of paper and the abundance of real wealth, and observing the steady maintenance of the premium on gold at 40 per cent, earnestly argues for a speedy contraction of the circulating medium in the East. The Tribune, in view of the necessities of the Treasury Department, thinks this is an unreasonable and impracticable demand, and makes this statement of the condition of the money market in the metropolis during the last week of July.

The bank statement shows a small decrease in loans, with a decrease of $7,023,419 in deposits and $5,799,447 in legal tenders. Upon this showing a lower stock market was made, but it [illegible] not appear to have affected any other branch of business. New York has for a long time been the cheapest money market in the Union, and the loss on deposits and legal tenders shown for the last few weeks is not unexpected. It is the natural current of money to the interior to move the crops and give new energy to trade. From the use of this money the railways and canals will receive more traffic and trade and generally a healthy impulse. The causes which are to produce a permanent "tight money market" are not yet in operation. The volume of currency has not yet been decreased beyond the amount of compound notes held as a temporary investment which does not exceed the increase made in National Bank Note circulation. The Treasury Department steadily spends all its receipts and the period of contraction, though approaching, has not been reached.

When the period of contraction will arrive it is difficult to determine. We suppose Congressional legislation will be required to secure the withdrawal of the legal tender notes from circulation, and that cannot be obtained until next Winter. In the meantime the Controller of the currency continues to authorize National Banks, and consequently to increase the volume of the bank circulation. It is true the Southern States [illegible] absorb much paper [illegible] the local States [illegible] than would suffice for a healthy [illegible] medium for the whole [illegible] tion of the National Banking [illegible] [illegible] cial journals are pleading for contraction and an early resumption of specie payments. Many of the State Banks have been converted into National Banks [illegible] it cannot be expected to take [illegible] for twelve months to come and [illegible] will swell the enormous [illegible] be maintained at about the present figure until next Winter. Whether it will [illegible] depend upon the legislation of Congress [illegible] majority of our statesmen at Washington [illegible] the influence of such financial [illegible] Samuel Walker [illegible] ment to issue [illegible] special [illegible] mines of the Pacific [illegible] the currency will prevail, the premium on gold will rise and the [illegible] will fade out [illegible] possibilities. The legal tender notes may be funded, the State Bank issues may disappear, but the limit of the National Bank note circulation will be pushed from three hundred million to five hundred millions under the [illegible] want of capital. On the other hand if the Congressional majority adopt the policy expressed by Secretary McCulloch while he was Controller of the Currency, the withdrawal of the legal tender notes and State Bank issues from circulation will be attended with a rigid adherence to the [illegible] [illegible] money market will [illegible] [illegible] the premium [illegible] will fall [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] are [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Until we [illegible] [illegible] to return their pres[illegible] [illegible] currency of the [illegible] paper currency of the [illegible]

[illegible] Herald [illegible] [illegible] the National Banking [illegible] State Banks [illegible]

[illegible] credit money and on [illegible] disorders which [illegible] credit. Credit [illegible] payment, but a promise to pay. The promise [illegible] may be sure to be fulfilled [illegible] the same [illegible] bear up a them [illegible] that they are [illegible] [illegible] delicately organized, the times are liable to come when men shall have [illegible] distrust [illegible] and shall [illegible] [illegible] almost [illegible] [illegible] to the holders to convert them into cash. It is [illegible] that many of the banks would be obliged to suspend specie payments since they are only required to hold twenty five per cent of their circulation and deposits in cash, and this ratio, as a general [illegible] ceeded. [illegible] [illegible] all come back [illegible] [illegible] considerable [illegible] the circulation of the State banks [illegible] will pass freely beyond the [illegible] [illegible] general [illegible] [illegible] from [illegible] [illegible] It will be strange [illegible] But the most imminent danger that threatens this system is this, that Congress will unwisely increase the amount already authorized to be issued before the system gets fairly [illegible] and the resumption of specie payments takes place. This is more way to be deprecated. The system will be sound and wholesome just in proportion as Congress refuses to add to the present amount of $300,000,000.

The writer [illegible] and there [illegible] are worthy of attentive consideration. But would not suppose upon reading the effusions of some of the supporters of the system that [illegible] to invented banks superior to all mortal perils. The truth is that, taking the standard of value adopted by the [illegible] the appreciation or depreciation of the National bank note currency depends upon the [illegible] wisdom of Congress. That [illegible] comprehend the evils entailed by a [illegible] paper currency may authorize such a multiplication of banks and increase [illegible] as to continue for years, the feverish speculation and disastrous fluctuation of prices which have been witnessed in the Northern States during the war for the suppression of the rebellion. Assuredly it is the wisest policy to hold fast to [illegible] and wait and see whether there is to be a return to specie payments as the business men of the Eastern cities expect and demand before deciding to take the risk involved in substituting paper [illegible]

Significance of the Eagerness for Pardon

The pressure of rebel Generals, rebel Congressmen, rebel [illegible] of all sorts upon the President for pardon strikingly shows the light hold their [illegible] had upon their moral convictions. There is such a thing as [illegible] even death itself sooner than renounce principle or bend the knee to its enemy. History abounds with instances of men who staked their all upon some great revolutionary effort for the good of their country, who did not suffer even the most crushing defeat to shake their devotion, and were proud to testify it by courting any extremity of fate. Such men have gone to the scaffold or been immured for years [illegible] sooner than recant [illegible] and put themselves in the position of suppliants before the power they had combated. Often when even no terms whatever were imposed, when a complete and unconditional pardon was tendered, all grace has been spurned. Eight years ago the French Emperor proclaimed an absolute amnesty to all the proscribed enemies of his dynasty. He required no oath, attached no condition. Yet there are hundreds who like Victor Hugo and Louis Blanc prefer to live in perpetual exile from the France they love so well rather than discredit their principles by taking any boon from an imperial hand. From every oppressed nation and nationality in Europe there are exiles in this country who are here solely because they consider that fidelity to their principles requires it.

Now the authors of the Southern rebellion professed to have as sacred a cause to fight for as any of the European revolutionists. Their original grievance as they put it was that their constitutional safeguards had been broken down and their constitutional rights invaded. By means of claim from that that the States had an inviolable right to secede from the Union at pleasure. They asserted that the right was implied in the constitution, that it was supported by the clause of the Declaration of Independence that "government derives all its just powers from the consent of the governed," that in fact it was one of those natural rights which lie at the very foundation of human freedom. After their ordinance of secession had been passed, they declared the exertion of Federal power over them to be a monstrous usurpation, and when the war was actually begun by the passage of the national armies to the "sacred soil" of Virginia they fairly exhausted the English vocabulary for the epithets with which to express their sense of its wickedness. That language was kept up through the whole contest. Were we to [illegible] of these men there has ever been a [illegible] more deeply involving human right and eternal principles than the struggle with which the South has for the last four years been resisting the Government of the United States.

The National Government in its triumph makes not a [illegible] concession to the South. So far from re-enacting the old constitutional safeguards [illegible] broken, it annihilates forever the interests which those safeguards were designed to protect. It not only refuses to let slavery go [illegible] territories, but will not tolerate its existence in the States. It does not abate one iota of the claim that its authority is superior to any State authority, and that there is no such thing as a right of secession. It does not assume any portion of the Confederate debt nor make any compensation in any shape for any damage inflicted by its war, nor enter into any engagement that the South shall receive any new political treatment. Whatever principles or [illegible] rebellion are [illegible] day [illegible] [illegible] ever [illegible] if they ever [illegible] moral constraint [illegible] [illegible]

But notwithstanding this, rebels, specially excepted from the Amnesty Proclamation, are all [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] holding [illegible] legislatures in [illegible] and take action [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] contact that there is no such feeling [illegible] principles. There is [illegible] and [illegible] has been anything in their behavior [illegible] [illegible] judgment [illegible] the [illegible] and the [illegible] speculations and dreams of those who [illegible] better and in consequence they are very [illegible] when [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] rebellion. Many of those who give their might for an evening's enjoyment [illegible] the kitchen, perhaps little think that they are contributing to the [illegible] spirit of the purest christian philanthropy.

The Trial of Champ Ferguson.—The trial of Champ Ferguson, the murderer of [illegible] and Garven, is progressing at Nashville. [illegible] prosecution, so far, have proven him guilty of [illegible] murderous charges and he has also [illegible] of robbery. The [illegible] states that "Champ sits in Court seemingly indifferent to the [illegible] the trial. He is [illegible] I have [illegible] care a damn what you prove. I am satisfied your intention is to hang me. The soldiers had threatened to take his life to revenge the murder of their comrades [illegible] to [illegible] of the prisoner [illegible] [illegible] Middle Tennessee guerrilla [illegible] [illegible] still [illegible] almost daily on [illegible]

John Bell.—The Chattanooga Gazette says the poor old man, John Bell, has [illegible] that place [illegible] for Nashville. The [illegible] Journal says: We suppose that Mr. Bell will return to Nashville [illegible] discomfort there than elsewhere. Of course the authorities will not think of molesting him. He will not be sent to any prison, but the whole world will seem to him one vast Fort Warren or Fort Lafayette from which there can be no escape except through the gate of death.—Portland Bulletin.

Business Lively.—What with the travel east and west and the rush for John Day's and to Montana our streets have lately presented a lively appearance. The stages are all running full of passengers in all directions. Large trains are almost daily leaving for the East and immigrants from that direction line the road all the time.—Idaho Statesman.

The State Seal of Virginia has been materially altered by the new State Government. The device is the same, but the motto "[illegible] Tyrannis" has been expunged, and the words "Liberty and Union" now appear above the Goddess of Liberty.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS,

Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS AT tended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the debilitated and shattered system. In fact, it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also—

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY, LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS.

And in every disease any way connected with the disorder or decay of the Procreative Functions. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER.

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once restored, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect, he moves with a firm step; his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom or of an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active; and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor.—The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE BLADDER, INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, AND CATARRH OF THE BLADDER,
STRANGUARY AND BURN-
ING, OR PAINFUL
URINATING,
CALCULUS, GRAVEL,
BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS
OR MILKY DISCHARGES AFTER URINATING.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent [illegible] TRY IT in these cases and you will ever give praise to

CONSTITUTION WATER.

M[illegible]

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back, and through your hips? CONSTITUTION WATER will relieve you like magic.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD, heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs, brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
